Dear Mr. Kobayashi

On behalf of gox-self-help, a group of MtGox depositors,
I would like to informally submit the following request to you:

1. We checked our last account balances on the site <https://mtgox.com>. Most of us, but not everyone, can verify their own balance as correct. Amounts that were transferred on the brink of insolvency were never credited in some cases. We want to know how the affected depositors may proceed in such cases.

2. The remaining assets in Bitcoins should be distributed to depositors proportionately to their final Bitcoin balance (as seen on mtgox.com). The remaining assets in legal currency (fiat) should be distributed to depositors proportionately to their final currency balance (as seen on mtgox.com).

3. We ask you to release the actual balance sheet and all transactions by which bitcoins got stolen, lost or seized. We assume this will not hinder the investigation. We demand that this information be released upon completion of the investigation. Further we ask you to give us a target date for completion of the investigation.

4. Please also explain satisfactorily and comprehensibly how the missing bank account deposits in legal currency (fiat) have disappeared. The results of the audit must be published.

5. We ask you to give us access to our data, in particular trading history, payments-in and withdrawals. In most countries these data are required for tax declaration.

Please send us your legal opinion on the matter at your earliest convenience.

Thank you for your time and attention.

Yours sincerely
Oliver Egginger

P.S.: This letter will be published.
